

Digital. Delivered.

Real transformation. From real people. For real life.

Achieve digital transformation the right way. With a lasting, positive impact on the people that really count. Inside and outside your business.

Digital transformation. There are a multitude of approaches that can be taken. But with Kainos, you get the right approach.

A solution tailored to align precisely with the unique goals of your organisation. One backed by matchless experience in solving complex, large-scale digital challenges, and in building smarter, better, faster services. One supplied by a team of expert engineering and design talent fully focused on your success.

We are renowned industry-wide for the quality of our people and we pride ourselves on delivering real transformations whose tangible benefits drive lasting, positive impacts on your people, customers and partners. All provided via a close, collaborative, genuinely symbiotic partnership.

Real transformation

Creating real transformation is central to our philosophy and vital to our approach. But what does that mean? Fundamentally, it is about going beyond simply replacing legacy processes and solutions to help you transform into an agile, digital business hyper-aware and responsive to its customers and their changing demands and needs.

Encouraging and fostering a user-first, rather than a policy-driven approach, we believe in delivering digital in a way that creates exceptional, true value for the organisation, its customers, and its users alike; a digital-first mind-set backed by expert insight to fully achieve your specific goals.

Why Kainos

With 30 years experience and more than 70 of the UK's highest profile digital transformation projects delivered in just 4 years, our unique approach has already positively impacted the lives of more than 55 million citizens and generated more than £100 million in cost savings. Because of this, we enjoy long-term, ongoing partnerships the length and breadth of the private and healthcare sectors, and across government and public organisations besides.

This has seen Kainos gain official recognition as a leading digital transformation partner across a broad array of arenas and disciplines, winning 39 industry awards since 2014.

End to end digital transformation services

Kainos' comprehensive services enable real, future-proof, sustainable digital transformation.

We fully understand the challenges of delivering digital. Because we overcome them every day.

Our team of software professionals is 800+ strong, bringing exceptional experience and skill in delivering large scale mission critical solutions.

Real transformation for the DVSA

Kainos has partnered with DVSA since 2014, supporting the successful delivery of a vital MOT modernisation project, the primary aim of which was to increase road safety by achieving reductions in the huge number of vehicles overdue for their MOTs while also cutting operational costs significantly. A classic "do more with less" scenario with a real impact on people's lives.

We worked closely with the DVSA to design, build, and deploy a national MOT testing service for 66,000 MOT testers across 22,500 garages. This new, award-winning digital service replaced the original national mainframe-based MOT system to huge success:

We have since helped the agency develop and implement further citizen-facing MOT services such as Check MOT history and Get MOT Reminders.

The partnership continues to go from strength to strength, with recent years giving rise to further developments in the DVSA's digitisation strategy. These have included discovery and alpha phases for Mobile Examiner Services and Commercial Vehicle Services and Driver Theory Testing (to replace the agency's legacy test centre approach) via a digital service that supports 'lifetime' driver learning.

We start by identifying where you are on the digital journey, understanding your specific needs before considering architecture and technologies.

We help you implement and optimise innovative and emerging technologies, minimising risk and adding value along the way.

We formulate an agile, iterative and collaborative project plan that delivers user-centric, value-added solutions, on time and to budget.

We mentor and coach your people, helping them embrace the new ways of working that they themselves enable.

Our unique approach to planning, engineering delivers robust, secure and scalable solutions.

Why partner with us?

With Kainos it's Digital. Delivered.

Because from initial discovery through development and deployment and beyond, we don't just talk technology, we live it.

Because we are renowned for employing the very best people in the business, engaging fully with our clients and staying engaged; perpetually striving to refine, enhance and improve every aspect of every solution.

Because we take a similar approach to supporting our customers, helping them mine and analyse deep learnings from their data, putting that knowledge to work in helping the organisation keep evolving and improving. Enabling fast, flexible end user responses. Keeping them ahead of the game.
